In serving on the ALI Board, it is understood that, taking into account emergency situations, representatives will participate in five meetings each year, along with the annual meeting. For the sake of consistency and planning, as constituencies select their Board representatives, do you think the Board should establish a day/week (e.g., third Tuesday of meeting months) on which ALI Board meetings will be conducted?

To encourage engagement and provide deeper insight into committee activities, it has been suggested that ALI board members serve as designated liaisons for ALI committees. The board liaisons would represent the committees at board meetings, presenting the committee reports and conveying board reactions and questions back to the committees. Would this be a useful approach?

Attendance has been dropping at the ALI annual member meeting. What would encourage greater attendance and engagement at the annual members meeting?

The ALI Board President has offered an overarching goal this year to promote engagement of the ALI membership. Toward that end, she suggests that the Board create a survey to gather input from the members regarding barriers to engagement, ways we might promote ALI activities and participation, initiatives members would like the organization to tackle in the coming year, what members see as the overall role of ALI, and what membership in ALI means to them. Related to this goal, what question(s) would you like to ask the ALI membership in a board-initiated survey?

As an ALI Board member, what do you think the ALI Board should address or explore this year or in the near future?

Is there a topic or issue we did not include in this survey about which you would like to share your thoughts? Please tell us…
